

Hodson Trust Teacher Fellowship Program Application

Available on the Annapolis Campus Only

The Graduate Institute in Liberal Education was founded in 1967 as a summer program intended primarily for high school teachers. While the size and scope of the Institute have expanded over the years, we seek to preserve a commitment to the education of teachers as a special part of our mission. As part of this commitment, St. John's College offers a special financial aid program for students who are full-time primary or secondary school teachers. The Hodson Trust Teacher Fellowship Program is funded through the generosity of the Hodson Trust, and offers a grant of 70% of cost during the summer for eligible students. This Fellowship is limited to students from the states of Maryland, Virginia, Washington DC, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and New York. Applicants must complete this form and attach a letter from the principal of their school verifying their full time employment as a teacher in the academic year prior to enrollment in the Institute.

Note: Applicants must also follow the application process for need-based financial aid.

Last Name	First Name	MI	Date
Name and Address of School
Principal's Name		Grade level taught
Subject(s) taught
Planned terms of enrollment

% L Q S H U V R Q O L Q H

Does your employer offer any financial assistance for graduate study? %yes %no
 If yes, please describe:

Return